

The journey of an atlas sample

Atlas samples are collected within two hours after surgery in Montreal, Canada, and analysed in labs across North America. The wider team of 60+ spans the US, UK, Canada and Israel, with investigators tackling different areas of the challenge.

